

Following on from Fantech's move to larger premises the Dublin based ventilation company has expanded its team with the key appointment of business development manager Mark Russell. With extensive experience and an impressive track record, Mark was responsible for building and developing a business over the last seven years within the Irish market place. Alongside his strong business acumen Mark has a high level of technical expertise within the building services industry, working previously with RMI Ltd and York ACR Ltd in technical and engineering roles.

Paul Kingswell has been appointed commercial manager at Jaga Heating Products. A vastly experienced sales professional in the air conditioning market, Paul's appointment to this newly created position signals Jaga's ambition to be a leading player in energy efficient heating and ventilation systems.

Paul's role at Jaga will focus on business development in the renewables sector exploring synergies with heat pump manufacturers. Paul was most recently national sales manager for Hitachi's Air Conditioning & Refrigeration Division.

Environmental Control Services Limited has announced that Colin Porton has joined the organisation to head up the new Bristol office.

Colin was previously operations director for Reliance FM and managing director of Kier FM. He has over 25 years experience in the support services / building services sector. Colin will focus on maintaining the existing ECS customer base and developing the business in both the public and private sectors in South Wales, the West and along the M4 corridor.

"I am looking forward to maximising the technical expertise within the company for the benefit of all our existing and new customers," says Colin.

As part of its strategy to develop a centre of technical excellence in the UK, Loughborough university graduate, Ben Foster has joined Waterloo as a design engineer working on the grille, louvre and diffuser ranges.

Waterloo's sister company in Holland has also reinforced its sales and marketing operations with the appointments of Janet Antonissen as marketing manager and Pascal Betten as sales manager.

Mike Price, formerly senior sales engineer with Daikin UK, has joined Oceanair UK Ltd.

Mike brings with him 25 years experience in the air conditioning industry, and is excited about the opportunity offered by his new position.

Tony Evanson, managing director of Oceanair UK Ltd, said: "We are delighted to have Mike on board. He shares our passion for customer service and will, I have no doubt, make a hugely valuable contribution to the company and our continued growth."

Waterloo is strengthening its manufacturing operations. Philip Wright has been appointed the company's new operations manager. Philip has over 20 years experience and held a number of senior posts in engineering, technology and the construction industries. He will be responsible for all manufacturing operations within Waterloo with a focus on efficiency and effectiveness of processes.

Space Air issued the following statement: "It is with deep sadness that we announce the loss of Roger Taylor, a valued member of our company family and dear friend.

Roger suffered a stroke at work earlier in March. Prompt action by his staff and the paramedics limited the potential damage and although very unwell the prospect of a reasonable recovery appeared to be promising. Tragically Roger suffered a second stroke in hospital, his condition deteriorated significantly and he sadly passed on Tuesday 23rd March. Roger is survived by Annette, his wife of more than 40 years."

Space Air's managing director, Neil Afram said: "Roger's connection with Space Air began in 1984 when he worked for County Business and sold us our first Apple computer, which still enjoys pride of place in our boardroom. Roger joined Space Air as operations and IT director in 1991.

"Roger was well known for his cheerful disposition, his love of golf, music and theatre, but he also had a passion for efficiency in business. He was the architect of our comprehensive and highly efficient CRM and logistics/product distribution systems.

"This is the saddest time in our company's 30 year history, we have lost a highly respected colleague and a fantastic friend. In mourning his loss we celebrate his life and cherish the many great times we enjoyed in his company."
